

Media consolidation is a bad idea from the start. The only reason this has gotten as far as it has is because the media corporations are already too powerfull.